

Wanted: Aspiring freelance consultants

Are you one of those people who hanker after the life of an independent consultant? Does a life where you have absolute freedom to decide the days and hours that you work, appeal?

Are you also a highly-skilled toxicologist with a minimum of 10 years experience in desk-based mammalian toxicology (hazard and risk assessment) and able to work independently or as part of a team? Are you comfortable in project management, including peer reviewing colleagues' efforts? And most importantly, do you have outstanding written and verbal communication skills, a good eye for detail, and a crucial ability to critically evaluate toxicity data?

If the answer to all of the above is a resounding 'Yes', but you've never considered the move to independence because of natural concerns re security of income etc, then now is probably the right time to talk to us.

Our ongoing growth and success means we are in the fortunate situation of being able to offer good support, outstanding work prospects plus high income possibilities, for any budding freelance consultants who are ready and willing to take the plunge into the heady world of consultancy, self-employment and independence!

Intrigued?

Have a look at our website, www.bibratoxadvice.co.uk, to learn more about us, and then if you're still interested, write or e-mail to:

Pat Aspin
Office Manager
bibra – toxicology advice & consulting
Westmead House
123 Westmead Road
Sutton
Surrey SM1 4JH

e-mail: pat.aspin@bibratoxadvice.co.uk